Seniors sponsor fundraiser

The Dillsburg Senior Citizen Center is sponsoring a Tupperware Brand Products demonstration and running through September 6. Up to that date, Center volunteers will be taking friends and neighbors to purchase Tupperware Brand Products in support of the Center's activities. A percentage of the total retail sale of the products will be returned to the Center as a contribution to the maintenance of programs and services to the area's older residents.

As part of the fundraiser, a Tupperware demonstration will be held at the Center on Thursday, September 6 at 1 p.m. The demonstration is open to the public, and all sales will contribute to the Center's programs.

The Center will also receive additional contributions for each home Tupperware demonstration arranged through the fundraiser. For more information on the fundraiser and how the public can support the effort, contact Mary Kay at the Dillsburg Senior Citizen Center, 1 N. Second St., Dillsburg.

Church of God Home

The Church of God Home has secured approval from Carlisle Borough and North Middleton Township for a $3.7 million expansion project.

The expansion calls for a three-story addition to be built east of its existing facility. The building, named Lottin Manor, will consist of 36 one-bedroom apartments featuring balconies or patios. Other amenities include a main dining room, snack bar, activity areas, lounge and storage areas specifically designed for independent living for persons 62 and older. Necker and Hall Associates, Chambersburg, has been awarded complete architectural and interior design responsibilities.

According to James Domes, Assistant Administrator, "Our Board of Trustees anticipates a tremendous ground-breaking sometime this fall, with actual construction in the spring of 1991. Occupancy is scheduled for the fall of the same year."

The home opened its doors in 1948 and is currently licensed for 107 nursing beds and 34 personal care beds. The facility also has 15 independent living apartments. Approximately 130 individuals are employed at the home.

Master Gardener Recognized

Dennis Mahoney of Dillsburg recently received recognition as an Outstanding Master Gardener for 1990. His volunteer work represents hundreds of hours of teaching and demonstrating gardening techniques to thousands of York County youth and adults.

Mr. Mahoney was nominated for his exemplary commitment to volunteering as a Penn State Master Gardener in York County from Spring, 1987 to current (1 year period). He has logged 34 different activities involving 500 individuals as a Master Gardener representative for Extension. He's provided records to Extension office of hours, activities and number of persons involved.

Extension, garden center employees, other Master Gardeners, and users of the public library system

He set up county-wide Extension involvement with the public library system called "Read for Soil." Planning and design for the frequently used Master Gardeners Display used at York County public high schools. The display promotes landscaping practices which reduce problems with the Bay.

THE BACKYARD FARM

Quality and not quantity, is what best describes "The Backyard Farm" of Dennis Mahoney of Dillsburg. Located at the south end of town on Route 74, just before the high school, (yes, the one that has brown eggs for sale), this compact property abounds with a multitude of varieties, sizes and colors of vegetation. Something new always seems to be blooming.
